Yale Clarinet Celebration
David Shifrin, director
December 2, 2023 | 4:30 p.m. | Sudler Recital Hall in William L. Harkness Hall

Introduction
David Shifrin and Graeme Steele Johnson

Our annual Clarinet Celebration concerts display the dedication, camaraderie, artistry, and virtuosity of generations of Yale clarinetists. Our roster today includes graduate students from the Yale School of Music, Yale College undergraduates, YSM faculty, and YSM alumni from the 1970s through the 2000s.

Our program is designed to explore the range, myriad expressive qualities, and chameleon array of colors of our beloved instrument and celebrate its allure for so many master composers. According to Mozart, the clarinet was the instrument that most closely resembled the human voice. With his miraculous and operatic Clarinet Concerto K. 622 and numerous chamber works, Mozart was the first to display the instrument's lyrical, cantabile potential as well as its agility and range. Our program includes Mozart's little-known jewel for two clarinets and three basset horns (a basset horn is akin to an alto clarinet). Mozart's Adagio K. 411 is an extended aria revealing an ethereal and organ-like sound world.

The uniquely vocal qualities of the clarinet found resonance in a succession of great composers, including Schubert, Beethoven, Weber, Mendelssohn, Schumann, and Brahms in the 19th century, and early 20th-century composers Debussy, Ravel, Bartók, Stravinsky, Schoenberg, Hindemith, and Copland, to name only a few. Many, many great living composers of the late 20th and early 21st centuries continue to make invaluable contributions to our repertoire.

Nowhere is the presence of multiple clarinets more prominent than in the world of the concert band. We are extremely fortunate to welcome conductor/composer and Yale's Director of Bands, Professor Thomas C. Duffy, to lead the opening of our concert with the premiere of his original Fanfare for Clarinet Choir.

Clarinetists often lament the fact that clarinets were not available during J. S. Bach's lifetime, but the glorious sound of Mozart's Adagio serves as inspiration to adapt some of Bach's music for clarinet ensemble. Hearing the famous "Little" Fugue in G minor and Contrapunctus VII from The Art of the Fugue played by a clarinet choir in this setting is almost like hearing a magnificent pipe organ come to life with human breath!

Musicians outside the classical canon have also embraced the clarinet for its vocal potential. The clarinet is virtually inseparable from the aesthetic identity of Jewish Klezmer music, which uses it as a melodic instrument for its ability to imitate human laughs and sobs. Composer Anna Vinnitsky writes compellingly in this idiom for her husband Pavel Vinnitsky (YSM '05) and in settings of traditional Klezmer songs for two clarinets. The clarinet also serves as a compelling voice in Arabic music as exemplified by Syrian clarinetist/composer Kinan Azmeh in his touching and heartfelt Prayer, Tribute to Edward Said. The works of these inspired composers offer a testament to the power of music to transcend worldly and political events and concerns.

Clarinetist/arranger Vincent Oneppo is a legend at the Yale School of Music. Since graduating as a clarinet major at YSM in 1973, he has enjoyed a diverse career as performer, bandleader, and visionary administrator. Now that he has retired from his administrative duties at Yale, we are delighted to welcome Vinny as a jazz and classical clarinetist and skilled arranger. Ravel extracted music of the French Baroque composer François Couperin for his Tombeau. The result was unmistakably Ravel, both in the piano and orchestral version. Oneppo's new transcription of three of the best-known movements from Ravel's masterpiece shows both the enduring quality of Ravel's genius and the versatility and variety of sounds a group of clarinets can make! An all-clarinet arrangement of Gershwin's "Summertime" from Porgy and Bess gives Oneppo a chance to display his elegant jazz style and recognize Ravel and Gershwin's great mutual admiration. It's worth noting that Gershwin was a guest at Ravel's 53rd birthday party on March 7, 1928, and entertained Ravel and the other guests with an impromptu performance of Rhapsody in Blue and a selection of songs. Gershwin, who was always looking to learn, asked Ravel to give him composition lessons. Ravel considered the request but decided that "it would probably cause him to write 'bad Ravel' and compromise his great gift of melody and spontaneity."

To close this clarinet celebration, we offer a masterpiece from a different genre: Oneppo's special all-clarinet arrangement of Steely Dan's 1977 hit song "Josie."
Prayer, Tribute to Edward Said
Kinan Azmeh
Composition and premiered in Damascus, Syria, 2003

I started working on this piece in the summer of 2003 and only completed it in October of that same year just a few days after the passing of the incredibly articulate, outspoken, and courageous Edward Said. This work is an homage to a humanist’s cry for justice in Palestine and is inspired by the incredible legacy he left behind.

Secluded Artist
Anna Vinnitsky

Secluded Artist is a composition for solo clarinet. It invites the listener to reflect on the power of solitude and introspection in the creative process. It celebrates the artist’s ability to find inspiration and meaning in their own company, and serves as a reminder of the profound beauty that can be found within the depths of one’s own mind.

The beginning portrays the artist’s initial inspiration and the excitement that comes with discovering their artistic voice. The music is vibrant and energetic, reflecting the artist’s newfound passion and determination.

The development section delves into the challenges and self-doubt that often accompany the artistic journey. The clarinet’s melodies become more fragmented and dissonant, reflecting the artist’s internal conflicts and moments of frustration.

The ending represents the artist’s reflection on their journey and the growth they have experienced along the way. The music becomes more introspective and contemplative, with moments of nostalgia and introspection. The clarinet’s melodies intertwine with moments of silence, allowing the listener to reflect on their own artistic journey.

Secluded Artist is a deeply personal and introspective composition that aims to resonate with both artists and audiences alike. It invites listeners to reflect on their own creative journeys and the transformative power of art.

Klezmer Duets
Anna Vinnitsky

The Klezmer Duets, composed for David Shifrin and Pavel Vinnitsky, is a captivating cycle of six duets for two clarinets. Inspired by traditional Klezmer folk tunes, these compositions were born out of the challenges of the pandemic.

To bring this unique musical experience to life, the first three duets were recorded separately by Pavel and David, allowing them to explore the nuances and intricacies of each composition. The result is a collection of performances that showcase their individual artistry and deep understanding of the Klezmer tradition.

The premiere of the first three duets took place at Yale in December 2022. It marked a significant milestone in this project, showcasing the virtuosity and musicality of both musicians. Today’s performance features the enchanting melodies of “Bessarabia” and “Rabbi Elimelech,” transporting the audience to the vibrant world of Klezmer music.
